2. METHODOLOGY

2.1 The proposed method that will be used to identify causal change in the evaluation *

Please tick one or more intended methodologies as applicable

Randomized control trial (or randomized assignment)
Natural experiment
Quasi-experimental (propensity score matching)
Quasi-experimental (instrumental variables)
Quasi-experimental (regression discontinuity design)
Quasi-experimental (difference in difference with matching)
Quasi-experimental (difference in difference without matching)
Interrupted time series
Single difference
Other econometric models (such as fixed effects models)
Case control
Other (please specify)

If 'OTHER' was ticked, please specify [up to 100 characters]:

2.2 Please describe the main question that the proposed impact evaluation study will examine.***
(up to 300 words)

2.3 Proposed impact evaluation design

Explain briefly the impact evaluation approach proposed in the study with an emphasis on mixed methods [up to 600 words].

2.4 Policy and research relevance

Why is the proposed impact evaluation important for key stakeholder decision making [up to 300 words]? Please also briefly outline the knowledge gap that the proposed evaluation will address [up to 300 words].

2.5 Relevant sector and impact evaluation experience

Please briefly describe the previous experience of the principal investigator(s) (PIs) in leading and contributing to rigorous impact evaluations that have employed rigorous mixed methods, including experimental and/or quasi-experimental identification designs, in the relevant sector(s): infrastructure, environment, public finance or governance, and in the country (ies) being targeted by this proposal [up to 400 words].
