

Recalling extra data: A response to Benjamin Wood and Michell Dong

Nava Ashraf

Xavi Giné

Dean Karlan

August 28, 2015

We appreciate the effort that went into this replication and robustness analysis and thank the authors. We are naturally pleased that the results found are consistent, and that no errors found lead to a reversal of any of the conclusions in our original paper. Nonetheless, several errors of ours were identified, some clear and some less so, and we have learned from this some important lessons about data management and records. We also agree with the conclusion that more original research on this topic is needed